

DRAWBACKS OF RANDOM FOREST

- No extrapolation for the data.
- There is only a limited complexity of relationships it can model
- They are basically doing NEAREST NEIGHBOURS. They just return the average of the best split i.e. the most similar to that data point.
- Can only do $\log_2 n$ decisions for a dataset and thus has limited complexity for splitting.